*. A very ancient if not the first edition of this author. Hain suggests that the printer may have been either Nicholas Jenson, or Francis Renner of Hailbrun. It certainly is not in Jenson's type and as it is said to be in the same type as is found in the Horace and Lucan's Pharsalia attributed to Francis Renner we must leave it there in the meantime. The characters are not the same as those used in the Ansonius of 1472 to which Brunet says they resemble. The difference is very marked when the books are placed side by side.

* These plates were issued separately and without order, sometimes being accompanied by a prospectus. When twenty-seven subjects had appeared, Fowler in October 1, 1804, gathered them into a volume which he dedicated to Sir Joseph Banks. About the end of 1809 a second volume of twenty-seven plates was completed which he called an appendix to the first, and this also he dedicated to Sir Joseph Banks. A second appendix was finished in April 1824, containing twenty-six plates, dedicated to Earl Brownlow. The remaining plates were produced for private circulation, and are of great rarity and interest.

In the following collation the order of issue by Fowler has not been adhered to, the plates being arranged by subjects in sequence of date, undated plates being placed at the end of their respective classes. An asterisk placed opposite a description indicates that the plate or prospectus is wanting in this set.

* Second Roman edition. It was issued with the epistle of the editor. Brunet and other bibliographers err in saying that this is a reproduction, line for line of the first edition. In this second edition both the book and chapter headings are introduced while in the first edition the former were invariably omitted. From leaves 1 to 22 the difference is marked; after that point the pages run alike as nearly as possible but occasionally lines have to be carried over when a long heading occurs.

Fol. 6 sheets joined together, printed on vellum in Gothic letter on one side of the sheet and forming a roll 6 ft. 7 in. long by 2 ft. wide. The first sheet (7½ in. long) contains the headpiece, on either side of which is a winged figure. The genealogy begins on sheet 2 and is surmounted by two winged figures bearing the arms of France, having on the left the arms of Burgundy, Normandy, Guienne, Flanders, Champagne and Toulouse, and on the right, Rheims, Laon, Langres, Beauvais, Noyon and Châlons. To the left of the genealogy of the kings of France is a list of popes from St. Peter, surmounted by the papal arms and a woodcut figure of St. Peter; to the right a list of emperors from Julius Caesar to Charles v., surmounted by the imperial arms and a woodcut of Julius Caesar. The genealogy begins with Pharamond and ends with Francis I. It contains 7 woodcuts of different sizes representing Pharamond, the baptism of Clovis, Dagobert I., Charlemagne, Hugh Capet, Philip II. and Saint Louis. The woodcut of the baptism of Clovis has on either side a coat of arms surmounted by a crown, the arms of France on the left bearing the motto "Missa sunt a Deo". To the right of the portrait of Charlemagne are the imperial and French arms under a crown. According to Brunet, there are two editions of this work, the first bearing the colophon "imprime a Paris le xxv jour de mars, Mil v.c.xx. auant pasques, par maistre Pierre Vidoue, pour Galliot du Pré," in 7 sheets, and the second "Paris le xxvij iour d'octobre mil v.c.xx. par Pierre Vidoue, pour Galliot du Pré," in 8 sheets. This copy is imperfect, wanting the sheet (or sheets) containing the genealogical table from Charles VII. to Francis I. and the colophon. In a cloth case.

*. The first edition of the English translation of this work. The "Prohemium" gives some interesting information regarding the printing and the maker of the paper on which it is printed:—

And wyth conceytes dyuers fede our mynde

As boke emprintid shewyth ryght as we fynde

By Wyken de Worde whyche thruh his dyligence

Emprentyd hath at prayer and desyre

Of Roger Thorney mercer . . .

And also of your charyte call to remembraunce

The soule of William Caxton first pryter of this boke

In laten tonge at Coleyn hysself to auaunce

That euery well disposyd man may thereon loke

And Iohn Tate the yonger Ioye mote he broke

Whiche late hathe in Englonde 7 doo make this paper thynne

That now in our englyssh this boke is prynted Inne.

There is nothing to guide us in determining the date except the types and woodcuts. It is most probable that the year 1495 was the date of printing. The reference to Caxton has been much and often debated. The true interpretation seems to be that Caxton when acquiring a knowledge of the art in Coeln worked in an office where a Latin edition was being printed.
